Kalzendil is located on a hill at the geographical center of the world. It is ruled over by a sage that is said to be a descendant of The Princess.

Background

Kalzendil is a gleaming capital of stone and light. Its massive light grey walls rise in tiers, each crowned with blue-roofed towers and fluttering banners that ripple in the winds coming in from the Aestilon Fields. Within those walls, cobbled streets wind upward toward the heart of the city — a citadel of marble and gold where the princess governs, and where sunlight spills through stained glass onto polished floors.

The Order of the Sages and Triumvirate both have powerful showings here, constantly competing over control of the day to day of the city.
