Appearance

Mirelle Starhoof carries a soft, reassuring aura. Her fur is dark umber with silver ear-stripes; her skin glows faintly when she performs. Slender, rune-carved antlers depict the Guardian of the Hollows and emit gentle light during song. Her amber-gold eyes shimmer with luminescence, framed by long curls of honey-brown hair. She dresses in silks of earthy tones—elegant but humble—and wears her late mother’s amulet, a locket engraved “Let your voice be the greatest strength. Love, Mother.” Her scent carries hints of rain and wood; her presence leaves others calm and comforted.

History

Born in Piam’s Choral Hollows, trained by her mother Ilythia Starhoof. Inherited the Living Songbook, a soul-bound tome that grows with her music. Her father, a ley-traveler, disappeared before her birth. After Ilythia’s death, Mirelle journeyed across Aestilon to preserve stories and rediscover purpose. Joined the Rebirth party under Rufus of Cantanagia III, where her melodies now guide and heal her allies.
