

Mother is Elf (rich family), father is half-elf. Born near the volcano near Rudiana. When Natra was 8 years old, her mother's family found them and tried to get her mother back by force. Her father died protecting her and her mother as they fled. Due to being on the run from her family, her mother's wasn't able to bring in a lot. She was further raised far away from civilization, living in a cave near a foresty clearing in the mountains near the volcano. Due to this, she has no humanoid friends, but she did learn to speak with the fey creatures living in the forest clearing.

Being born near the volcano made her close to the element of fire. This connection persevered throughout her life. As she wandered the clearing, she discovered a path that led her further up the volcano. Here, she discovered a fire elemental and she created a friendship with it.

She left home when she was 20, she ran away from home to learn the information her mom wouldn't tell her. She has been wandering for 20 years ever since.
